Price: $24.95

You're one of the entrepreneurs who will build the famous Metro of Paris in 1898. Your only goal is to build the longest track. But, as you can guess, your plans will probably conflict with those of the other builders. Clever opponents will try to box you in, or misdirect your line to some utterly unprofitable station.

METRO is a fast paced game of construction. As each track is randomly pulled the player must decide whether that tile is suited best to expand his own line or sabotage one belonging to one of the other players. Rules are quadrilingual, covering English, German, French and Italian. Playing Time: 45 minutes. For 2 to 6 players, ages 10 and up. Price: $24.95

While King Richard the Lionhearted is away leading the Third Crusade greedy nobles are trying to usurp his throne back in England. His authority diminishes as one castle after another falls. But you, hero, are faithful to King Richard. As a noble knight you retake these castles in order to preserve his legacy. Of course, you are not alone in this quest. Other Chevaliers vie for these same honors. To whom will Richard owe the greatest debt when he returns?

CASTLE LORDS is a card game. A Player builds an army by amassing cards, the better their hand, the better their army. The better the army the easier it is to recapture castles and to keep them under your control. But building the army is the tricky thing. Some cards you trade away, others you desperately want to hold onto. All in all, a rather unchivalrous way of doing things! Playing Time: 1 Hour. For 2 to 5 players, ages ten and up. Price: $19.95

CHARMED: The Book of Shadows

Never has a book been as dangerous as The Book of Shadows. Followers of the dark forces seek it for the powers it yields those whom possess it. In the hands of a withe witch it can end much suffering. In the hands of a demon it will be turned against humanity and used to usher in an age of chaos and destruction. The three Halliwell sisters are the keepers of this powerful tome and use it to combat the forces of evil. The sisters have an ally in Leo, a being of light.

The Game: The Book of Shadows is a family game based on the television series CHARMED. Each player assumes the role of either Prue, Piper, Phoebe or Leo in their battle against evil. They must be careful, however, and keep the book safe at all costs while gathering their power to terminate all those demons. And their task is tricky, for, as the demons become fewer, they also become stronger! Playing Time: 1 and 1/2 hours. For 1 to 4 players, ages 10 and up. Price: $34.95
